Perhaps the most interesting article was that delivered by R. L. Cummings of ple buyer and told of many things interesting to his listeners and some things

After the supper Eddie and Howard Chick entertained the gathering by several piano solos and a duet. The "swapping social" followed and all who brought bundles or articles to swap did so until a bell was rung and then the bundle which each held belonged to the NUMBER 13.

MARCH 26, 1909, NORWAY, MAINE.

VOLUME XL.

Lewis Lovejoy.

An aged and well-known resident of Norway passed to the "Great Beyond" at his home on Beal street, Friday, March 19th.

Mr. Lovejoy was born in Greenwood, July 3, 1824, the son of F. and Lucinda Lovejoy, and he attended school in Greenwood and Watford. He lived in Greenwood till he was 11 years old, when he went with Isaac Flint in Watford until he was 17 years old. Then he went to Massachusetts and lived until 1850, when he married and came to Norway to live. He married Betsey J.
Jordan of Norway, now deceased.

When in Massachusetts he worked at brick-making. He ran an engine for B.
F. Spiney & Co. five years. Besides this he was a carpenter and a farmer.

He was a member of the "Old Iron Glad Reformers" and in politics a Democrat. He was a member of the Methodist church and a constant attendant at the services.

His children are B. H. Lovejoy of Salem, Mass., Harry E. Lovejoy of Norway, G. W. Lovejoy, who died in Nya, N. Y., and Frank W. Lovejoy of Norway.
The funeral was from the Methodist church, Sunday, and was largely attended. His pastor, Rev. C. A. Brooks, spoke words of commendation of the deceased.

Sarah Hamilton Witt.
Sarah Hamilton Witt died at her home at Norway, Friday, March 19th. She was the daughter of Norman and Rachel Porter Witt, and was born in Norway, December 10th, 1853. She lived in Norway nearly all her life, except when teaching in Massachusetts.

She taught in the Norway schools eight or ten years, and about the same length of time in Massachusetts.
She was very successful in her chosen vocation of teaching, having great adaptability and an inexhaustible fund of patience, so that she had a remarkable track of getting her scholars to work and winning their esteem and love, at the same time.

Nearly twenty years ago, while teaching in Massachusetts, she slipped and fell, causing injuries to the spine which finally compelled her to give up teaching and at last confined her to the bed. For nearly 14 years she has been a patient sufferer, dependent on others for daily help and ministrations. She was a most cheerful and courageous "shut-in," winning the love of all who came to her care for her. Death came very suddenly and gently for her at last, suffering heart failure, caused by the long suffering and pain of the spinal trouble, and increased by a severe cold at the very last.

She joined the First Congregational church in early life. The funeral was held from her home, Sunday, March 21st, at two o'clock p. m., and her pastor, Rev.
B. S. Rideout, spoke words of comfort to relatives and friends.

Herbert E. Woodsum.
Many Norway people will regret to learn of the death of Herbert E. Woodsum, son of the late Elias H. Woodsum, at New Orleans, La. This young man of sterling character, who has been a successful electrician in New Orleans, La., for several years, died of pneumonia March 18, at the age of twenty-nine years and eleven months.

He leaves a wife and five-year-old son, a brother, Arthur F. Woodsum, and a sister, Mary E. Van Vorhes, to mourn the loss of their loved one.

Southern Pines, N. C. Mr. Danforth has been there several winters and his health is much better there winters than in the north.

Mrs. Carroll Delano went to the C. M.
G. hospital, Wednesday, and was operated on Thursday for a tumor, and is who has been at the Central Maine General hospital at Lewiston for twenty-five days, came to Norway, Monday. Her children went for her and she stopped at C. A. Frost's that night and was carried from there on a bed to her home, Tuesday.

church met with Mrs. Milton Merriam of upper Main street, Thursday, March 18.

Louise Graves, Thursday, April 1st, at 2.30 p. m. The Home and Foreign missionary society will meet in the M. E. church vestry at 3 p. m., Friday, March 25th.

Another grand good time will take place at the G. A. R. hall, Thursday evening, March 25, when the Veranda club will give one of their assemblies or promenades. The music will be by Mr.
Louise Graves, Thursday, April 1st,
at 2.30 p. m. The Home and Foreign missionary society will meet in the M. E.
25th.

The Baptist ladies' circle met Thursday with Mrs. Scott Merrill on Main street.
It was found that forty dollars was made at the Old Folks' concert. This completes the $100 which was pledged the 4th of February. The ladies feel very well pleased with their work so far this year but they have had to work very

It has been quite noticeable, this past throughout the village who have had one Stage From Lovell to Saco.

Freeman Perkins was in the neighborhood one day, calling on some of his old neighbors, although past 82 years old, he walked from his home in Bridgton and appears much younger.

It is interesting to hear him tell his experiences as a stage driver, when he drove an opposition for Isaac Dyer, sixty years ago from Lovell to Saco. They started from Lovell at 4 o'clock a. m., drove to Denmark for breakfast, to Baldwin for dinner and from there to Saco. Passengers going to Portland took another coach there, and went to Gorham and took the cars.

There was some bidding for passengers between the two drivers, and they often times got very cheap rides. He mentioned one time where two ladies wanted to ride and said they were going with the one that would carry them the cheapest. So Perkins told them what he would take them for, and the other driver went lower and they bid down until Perkins said he would take them for nothing and pay for their dinner in Baldwin, consequently he got the passengers.

They could not seem to run Dyer off the line and at last bought him out, and that ended Perkins' stinging from Lovell to Saco.

Spring Clothing

Our enthusiasm for the new Spring Suits and Top Coats which we are now showing is based on the results our customers get from them. It's worth a great deal to us to know that when we sell a suit or a top coat we're giving our customers big values for his money; and that he's going to get the value out of it. Good fabric counts in the wear; so does good tailoring; and the correct style is a powerful factor in your satisfaction. We do ourselves good when we do you good; and the clothes we offer you this spring do it.

Account of Town Meeting in 1827 Regular Nomination.
At a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Greenwood and Norway, held at the house of Captain David Noyes, on Tuesday the eighteenth day of September, 1827.
Voted—That Joshua Smith, Esq., be Chairman of the meeting.
Voted—That Henry Rust be Secretary.
Voted—That the inhabitants of Greenwood that are present agree among themselves, whether they will waive their right of a representative from that town this present year.
Pursuant to the last vote the inhabitants of Greenwood assembled by themselves, and report that they unanimously agree to choose a candidate from the Town of Norway.
Voted—To Ballot for a candidate for a representative. Proceeded to ballot—The votes being sorted and counted, were found to be as follows:
For Uriah Holt, Esq., thirty-one votes.
Joshua Smith, Chairman.
Henry Rust, Secretary.
A counter meeting was held at the same time at Fuller's Corner, from which an agent was sent to the meeting at Norway's for the ostensible purpose of ascertaining the proceedings, in that they might act in concert. A copy of the proceedings, duly attested, was sent to them. It is now ascertained that instead of acting in concert, that they voted to hold up Col. Cole, as their candidate. It may be proper to observe that at the meeting at Norway's, Colonel Cole and Captain Noyes (the former candidate) were both present, and with other gentlemen from Greenwood, fully agreed to waive their right to send a representative from Greenwood, saying they both declined being considered as candidates—It is hoped that there will be a general attendance in both towns at the meeting on Saturday next.
Norway, Sept. 19, 1827.

Mrs. Walter T. Anderson has the above and has kept it in her scrap book very choice these many years. It was handed down to her as a sort of an heirloom.
She has an order book for stage passengers in which the Portland stage driver entered his orders for passengers.
Sometimes the name was given and sometimes only the "seat" and where to find the passenger. Some of the names we note that took a stage ride in 1827: Uriah Holt, Levi Whitman, I. C. Virgin, Olive Shackley, Mary Bodwell, Susan Bodwell, Henry Rust, William Frost, James Tubbs, Horatio G. Cole, Sally Hicks, Esther Bartlett, Jas. Cummings, Benjamin, Henry Cummings, John Cummings, Milo Hathaway, Abner Downing, Sewell Ordway, Increase Robinson, Joel Parsons, Elias H. Leighton, Hon. A. K. Parris, Stephen Cummings, Joseph Woodman, Dea. Smith, James Crockett, E. P. Beal, Thomas J. Cox, Jonathan Woodman, Jr., Reuben Noble, Sylvanus Herring, Alphon Twitwell, Sullivan Churchill, Isaac Thompson, Thomas Witt, Moses F. Kimball, Samuel Cobb, Silvanus Sturtevant, Betsey Cobb, Abby, Ezra Twombly, Daniel G.
Horne, Gen. Wm. Parsons, Jr., Duot. N.
Reed at Duot. J. S. Millett's, S. G. Ordway, Solon Bartlett, Daniel Pratt.

Many of these old names have a familiar sound, and some of their descendants still bearing the same name still live in Norway. The last entry in this book was Friday, Sept. 22, 1843.
There is still another book, the "mail" book. We do not know just how they managed the mail in those days, but they appeared to write down the names of the parties to whom the letters were addressed under the several rows. If any one knows more about how these letters were sent and delivered at that time we would like to know.
Mrs. Anderson has a store of ancient books. In the list is the "Abstract of Sacred History, being the first part of the Geneva Catechism." This was printed in 1828. "Charles H. Howard book" is written in the front. Many events of the Bible might be learned from this little book of questions and answers. "The Young Scholars First Book, or Guide to Knowledge" was published at the Oxford Book store, Paris, Maine, by Asa Barton in 1825, price 62 1/2 cents per dozen, 3 cents single. By the way, book stores in these early days used to publish books. It contained the alphabet in different styles of type, words to spell, beginning with the little word "a," and ending with "yeomany." Besides this there are short sentences for reading, that like the spelling, grows harder and harder till you reach the 33 pages.
A poem, "The Grave," with the life of the author, Robert Blair, and prefatory notes, published by the Oxford Book store, at Norway, and printed by Asa Barton, has 33 pages on this very useful subject.
"The American Spelling Book," by Noah Webster, Esq., 1822, for use of schools in the United States, shows what the students of those days had to struggle with.
The "Life of Benjamin Franklin," written by himself, and printed in MDCCXCVI, with his picture as a frontispiece. It has the long S. The great man of by gone ages seems to be talking to the reader who peruses these pages.
"A Compendium of the Bible," printed in 1810, shows how much study was

You needn't be afraid.
One day a lady who had been reared in the careful luxury of the old-fashioned Virginia home was invited to visit the kitchen of a great Chicago hotel. She wanted to go, but was afraid. When asked why, she replied: "I'm afraid I'll see something that will forever destroy my appetite for hotel food." She went, and found everything delightfully clean.
Good housewives consider cleanliness and purity first of all; that's why Quaker Oats is their choice among all oatmeals.
In making Quaker Oats the grain is sifted and resifted, passing through more than fifty processes of cleaning before it is cooked and rolled.
If you took a handful of oats and scrubbed and polished and wiped each separate grain, it wouldn't then be nearly as clean as Quaker Oats. No human hand ever touches a single grain of Quaker Oats from the field to your kitchen. The best advice on foods you could have is: Eat Quaker Oats every morning for breakfast.
This wonderful food is sold in three kinds of packages. The regular package at 10c. The large size family package at 25c, and the large size family package containing a fine piece of table china at 30c.

These women are only a few of living witnesses of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. Not one of these women ever received compensation in any form for the use of their names in this advertisement—but are willing that we should refer to them because of the good they may do other suffering women to prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable and honest medicine, and that the statements made in our advertisements regarding its merit are the truth and nothing but the truth.

"Geography Made Easy" printed in 1811, has 362 pages and seems more like a history in its make up, than a modern geography. There is no war map or illustration in it. It is all solid reading.
The late Rev. and Pious Richard Baxter called to the Unconverted to Turn and Live, and accept of Mercy, while mercy may be had, as ever they will find mercy in the day of their extremity, from the living God," was published in 1813, has 250 pages of reading, true to the time we would like to know.
"The Columbian Orator," printed in 1817, has original and selected pieces, similar to the readers used in schools up to the present day. There is this difference, however, everything is taken so carefully that even the occasional funny parts point a moral to the youths.

Ever since Gladys Merrill and Francis Mills, students of Gould academy, have been spending their vacation working in the card store.

The masquerade ball which was held at Bell's hall, March 4th, was a complete success. A fine crowd gathered, there being over 50 couples on the grand march. The costumes were many and very distinguishable. At the early hour of 12 an oyster supper was held. The stew was very nice and prepared by a skillful cook. Mr. Bell should be highly complimented for serving such a fine supper.

Cause for Alarm.

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should Not be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating is indicative of indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health, and insatiable appetite is a sure symptom of diabetes.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest and healthiest persons are moderate eaters. There is nothing that will create sickness or cause more trouble than an indigestion of the stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge everyone in Norway who is suffering from any stomach derangement, indigestion or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers who day and have yet to hear of anyone who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They are made from the prescription of a physician who devoted all his time to the study and treatment of stomach troubles. They give very prompt relief, neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, create good digestion and assimilation, naturally regulate the bowels, promote perfect nutrition, and create a permanent cure of all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 days' treatment. At the end of that time, if your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases, length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 45c and 89c. F. P. Stone, Norway, Me.

Farmers who insist that it doesn't pay to bother to raise apples may be interested to observe that good eating apples are retelling in fruit stores just now at five cents per apple, and even the ordinary grades are marked "45 for 10c."

Country Girls in Cities.

The old complaint that the boys are leaving the farms gives place to the cry that the girls are now going. The type- writer is principally responsible, though improved and cheaper typewriters are factors. Ninety-nine girls out of a hundred who go to the cities or large towns have in view the study of stenography and typewriting.

The latter occupation furnishes employment for hundreds of thousands, mostly girls. Stenography in connection with typewriting pays better, and so the ambition of the average applicant is to learn both. The country girl hears that one accomplished in these arts may earn $15 to $20, or even $30, a week, and she is apt to work satisfactorily in any large city office.

This seems a great fortune to the average country girl and off she goes to the city to make her way and live in great style.

It is the fall or earlier that the hegirl takes place. During September and October an army of country girls, rosy-cheeked and bright-eyed, arrive in New York and other Eastern capitals. Formerly, it was boys alone who flocked to the cities, but it is questionable now if more girls than boys do not go.

Sociologists who make a study of such things, though nervous as to the outcome, admit that the exodus cannot be stopped. As well try to turn the Hudson into a river flowing in the opposite direction as to stop the flow of girls to the Chesapeake, as to check the tide of femininity which is racing in bunches toward the uncertain field of municipal endeavor.

The dishwasher has no longer a show when pitted against the typewriting machine and farmer's daughters are, if anything, more eager than farmer's sons to turn their backs on the cow pastures and the village choir.

Almost any farmer's wife will wax eloquent on this topic and proprietors of city stores and other industries report that more and more country girls are yearly included among the applicants for work. As a rule, country girls are well trained by their parents. As a rule, they are more anxious to please customers and have better manners than city girls. If they should have relatives with whom they can make their homes, all is apt to go well. If they are compelled to board with strangers, or live with other girls, bachelor style, the results are not apt to be so favorable. It takes more wages to keep up, in the first place, and lack of home restraint and the safeguarding essential to the young girls, intensify the problem.

The girl qualified to do the work well when she arrives is the exception. Thousands of girls, totally inexperienced and unable to do anything properly as store clerks, stenographers or typewriters, arrive in the great cities every fall. Perhaps they have acquired a smattering in the night school, perhaps they have picked up a little knowledge in a village store. She has to learn all over again and make herself proficient before she can obtain or hold a job.

Nearly all of them are deficient in education. When the proprietor dictates a letter, or the editor hands over a letter to be copied for the press, he soon finds that the newly-arrived cannot spell and does not know the meaning of the simplest words.

The really well educated typewriter or stenographer, but no other, can secure the best position or the best pay. Lawyers and doctors in large practice need stenographers of high grade, and they deal in difficult and technical language, and a special education is needed for those who seek employment in these lines. When equipped for such jobs, they receive good pay. The great mass of girls who seek the cities, if they get employment at all, must be content with the lowest forms at very low wages.

It is a rough world we live in and whatever route we travel is apt to prove a rocky road. The farmer's daughters who remain at home assisting in housework and teaching until marriage will not find their way strewn with roses, but on the whole fill a natural role, with its own proportion of pleasure and pain. If she is tempted into the world, she may do well, but the chances are against her.

Every girl dreams of the time when she shall marry and "live happily ever after." Other ambitions may intervene, success in music, on the stage, as an expert stenographer, but in the distance marriage looms up as the ultimate goal.

We should say that the country girl who remains at home has a better chance of marrying well than her sister who domiciles in the city. Many happy marriages take place between office girls and industrious young men, but as a rule the millions of girls who swarm in city stores, factories and offices, find it difficult to contract satisfactory marriages.

The country girl, on the other hand, has an expert stenographer, but in the distance marriage looms up as the ultimate goal. At the present time three of our lawmakers, Effie Towne, Augusta Wardwell and Earle Kavaragau have returned from Washington. The girls are very enthusiastic over the town and think of returning there to reside after completing their education. Earle's only complaint is that the time was limited. He spent two days watching the girls count money in the treasury building and another day in the office of the governor in Washington. Earle made the acquaintance of our representative, Hon. John P. Swasey, and says John showed him some of the sights but did not invite him to dinner, and in consequence he will run for congress at the next election in this district and try and throw John out of his job.
